

Covid-19, Vaccines & Censorship: Who Should We Trust?

By Robert Genetski

In the first stages of the global Covid-19 pandemic there were various expert opinions about the disease and how to deal with it.

-US government health officials believed the best way to confront the disease was to lock down the economy and quarantine individuals until a vaccine could be developed.

-Other experts, here and abroad, believed a better approach was to allow most economic activity to continue while isolating only those most vulnerable. These experts believed it was unlikely the disease could be contained, so locking down the economy and quarantining would only delay the spread of the disease while doing great harm.

-Some medical doctors and scientists were reporting successful prevention and curing of Covid by building up natural immunities, using various supplements and prescribing anti-viral prescriptions in the event of symptoms.

In the midst of a wide range of expert opinions, our government health officials took over the responsibility for dealing with the impact of Covid in the US. They received complete support of the media and Internet search engines, who cooperated by censoring almost all information that has been inconsistent with the views of our government health officials.

Fast forward to today. Since the outbreak in the spring of 2020, a lot of information has emerged about Covid and how to treat it. Unfortunately, and sadly, most people are unaware of this information. Health care has become politicized. Information and opinions opposed to the narrative coming from our government health officials remains heavily censored.

Censorship of opinions makes it difficult for the public to accurately evaluate how our government health officials have performed. To properly evaluate our health officials, it's essential to be able to compare their advice with experts who have different views. Censoring the opinions of qualified experts with different views is a sign of insecurity and weakness. When medical treatment is dictated by government health officials, we have a totalitarian government. When government health advice is wrong, people unnecessarily die.

How knowledgeable are our government health officials?

We now know, and should have known at the Covid outbreak, not to transfer Covid patients to nursing homes, where they could infect and kill people most vulnerable to disease. We also now realize advising people to stay indoors and quarantine only worsened the problem. Covid spreads more easily in confined settings than in the open air. Another deadly mistake came when our officials advised people who developed Covid symptoms to stay at home unless the symptoms become worse. We now know early intervention is the key to saving lives.

Early in 2020, there were doctors who were successfully treating Covid patients and explaining how early treatment was essential to save the patient. The Bakersfield Doctors claimed the most effective defense against Covid was to build up natural immunities. The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons (AAPS) told of their success in recommending using hydroxychloroquine and Ivermectin in helping Covid patients to recover. The advice from both organizations was dismissed by government health officials and labeled misinformation by the media.

Covid-19, Vaccines & Censorship: Who Should We Trust?

By Robert Genetski

The cancelling of people with differing opinions, even if they are practicing doctors successfully treating Covid patients, continues to this day. In spite successful treatments, doctors have been threatened with losing their licenses and hospital admitting privileges if their treatment is inconsistent with the recommendations of government health officials.

Were our health officials misinformed or uninformed?

Recent research and analysis indicate our government health officials have been and continue to be misinformed regarding successful treatment for Covid. An outpouring of research from India, Africa, Argentina, Japan, Australia and Indonesia provides strong support for the use of Ivermectin. When Ivermectin, is used early in treatment, and supplemented with other aids, it has been highly effective in overcoming Covid without the many serious side effects currently reported from the use of the Covid vaccines.

The experts who were censored and vilified for recommending the use of Ivermectin and hydroxychloroquine appear to have had it right. Instead of listening to them, or at least exploring the claims of successful treatments, our health officials actively worked to discourage a solution that could have saved hundreds of thousands of Covid deaths.

Ivermectin has been so effective in containing Covid in certain states in India the Indian Bar Association (IBA) is suing health officials who worked to prevent the distribution of Ivermectin. The extensive suit provides substantial documentation alleging a coordinated conspiracy among pharmaceutical companies, government health agencies and social media companies to defame successful inexpensive Covid cures and enrich vaccine providers. The suit documents how Covid deaths in India were almost entirely eliminated in states that actively disbursed Ivermectin to their population. In states that relied on vaccines and advised against using Ivermectin, Covid deaths soared and continue to soar. The suit holds health officials, who deliberately worked to discourage the use of Ivermectin, responsible for the many lives lost due to their advice. The disastrous advice of some Indian health officials is similar to the advice provided by our government health officials.

The IBA suit from India also documents serious problems Indian doctors report from reactions to the Covid vaccines. These are similar to problems reported in medical research from Israel.

Are Covid Vaccines Safe?

Our government health officials claim the vaccines are safe and essential to defeating Covid. However, the many mistakes these officials have made in dealing with disease suggest we should least be cautious about blindly following their advice concerning Covid vaccines. As with treating Covid, different medical experts have differing opinions about the safety of Covid vaccines.

One problem with the “official” view of the safety of the vaccines is the “official” claim they are essential to defeating Covid. Research showing the effectiveness of Ivermectin indicates there are inexpensive alternatives to dealing with Covid. Hence, the vaccines are not essential. Another safety problem is the failure to follow normal procedures and establish a safety committee to closely monitor data from adverse reactions. The CDC admits it doesn’t have such data.

There are a number of medical experts who rigorously disagree about the safety of Covid vaccines. They claim the vaccines themselves can create and contribute to serious health problems. They explain how the Covid vaccines do not use a new experimental form of gene therapy that has not been adequately tested for adverse events and reactions.

Covid-19, Vaccines & Censorship: Who Should We Trust?

By Robert Genetski

Sucharit Bhakdi is an esteemed microbiologist and immunologist. He has spent his entire career in the field and has published over three hundred articles on immunology, bacteriology, virology, and parasitology, for which he has received numerous awards. He vigorously objects to the use of the Covid vaccines for healthy individuals, and especially for children.

Dr. Bhakdi explains the microbiology associated with both the Covid virus and the Covid vaccines. He claims the vaccines will cause the virus to mutate into variants and explains why the vaccine can make it more difficult for our immune systems to deal with variants. He also believes there are serious side effects of the vaccines including among others heart damage, blood clots, and the activation of latent viral conditions.

These are serious opinions by one of the world's most decorated experts in the field. In the past, might expect a lively discussion and debate between our health officials and Dr. Bhakdi. People could learn a great deal about the strengths and weakness of each position and decide for themselves if taking the vaccines offset the risks.

In our current politicized climate, no such discussion or debate will occur. Instead, as with the views of the US doctors who were successfully treating Covid patients, Dr. Bhakdi was immediately censored and condemned for providing "misinformation."

In contrast, misleading information by the CDC (such its claim that immunity from the vaccine is 5 times greater than natural immunity), is reported and accepted as truth. Reliable Israeli research showing natural immunity is 16 times more effective than the vaccine, is ignored. As in the case of censoring the successful treatment of Covid, if our health officials are misinformed about vaccine safety, there will be many unnecessary deaths and disabilities.

Preliminary information on adverse events associated with the vaccines appear to indicate Dr. Bhakdi's insights have merit. The CDC's own adverse events data through October 22nd, show there have been over 17,000 deaths and permanent disabilities following Covid vaccines. This is more than the total from all other US vaccines in the past 20 years. Even worse, some health officials have complained adverse events and reactions are not being reported due to the time-consuming and complex nature of these reports. If so, deaths and permanent disabilities from the vaccine have been many times higher than reported to the CDC.

Many healthcare workers are well aware of the dangers associated with the vaccines. Thousands are willing to lose their jobs rather than take or give their children a vaccine that could result in death and permanent disability. These workers are also concerned over the longer-term effects of a vaccine that has been rushed into use without close monitoring by a safety committee. Sweden and Denmark have already halted the use of the Moderna vaccine for younger groups due to adverse reactions.

Given the potential harm from the vaccines and the extremely low risk Covid poses to children, any sensible cost/benefit analysis argues against giving the Covid vaccine to children. The only reason to recommend vaccinating children, who have almost zero risk of dying from Covid, is increase the profits of pharmaceutical companies at the expense of the well-being of our children.

We hope and pray Dr. Bhakdi's analysis about how these vaccines work is wrong. If his analysis is correct, the censorship efforts of our government health officials and the media, along with their failure to warn the public against the risks associated with the Covid vaccines, will go down in history as one of the greatest crimes against humanity.